Apttus implementation for a digital communication leader

Client Background

A global leader in mailing solutions and a major player in shipping services and digital communications headquartered in Milford. The company provides fully scalable solutions for a small to large multinational businesses. The company has its footfall in 31 countries and partners spread across 90 countries offering a full range of consultancy, maintenance and financing solutions services.

Problem

The company faced a number of operational issues due to multi system product list and disparate ordering systems. The setup exaggerated their sales cycle with poor customer experience because of delay in quoting and ordering process. The company was not able to manage the digital process of quote to order.

Solution

- Forsys partnered with Apttus and designed consistent client store branding with Angular UI on Salesforce platform for all their storefronts
- Developed catalogue browsing with product hierarchy, product name and product filters for better search experience
- Created uniform buying experience for all the customers with order history and relevant order status notifications
- Integrated the system with Vertex for Tax

Benefits

- Enabled client customer to place their orders on e-commerce storefront for a seamless centralized customer experience
- Provided single transaction window for region specific customer with customized cart to order experience along with the shipping cost and taxes
- Empowered client to leverage a single set of products and pricing across all sales channels to optimize operational redundancy
